Don Koon demands perfection.

Don Koon has a very special job with Bryan's printing department. He demands perfection in the offset preparation of all our printing jobs. For example, he checked each phase of the publication you're holding now before it was printed to make sure that it was produced as economically and as perfectly as possible.

That's the spirit at Bryan's. To produce the finest quality printing every time. So, when you give us a job to do, you can depend on its being done right. Along with Don Koon there will be over 175 other craftsmen working with the same spirit.

Several families came down to the football field during "Fan Day" to meet the players who would be guests in their homes that night. Among them were Dr. Joel V. Brawley, left, who had Dyke Sidway (54), Luke Deanhardt (88) and Dave Slyder (92) for supper. Also on hand with Dr. Brawley were neighbor James Dusenberry and the two Brawley boys, Vince and Dan.

Sarah and Bob Gilliland, along with daughter Clair, prepared a fondue supper for four of the Clemson players. Randy Joseph, George Bosse, Forster Chamberlain and Bennie Alexander appear anxious for the main course to be served.

Usually while the mother finishes up supper, father and the children come by Mauldin Hall to pick up the players. Butch Trent, right, and son Jimmy are ready to transport Eddie Sink, Jim Ness and Ricky Bustle to the Trent home for some home cooking.

WELCOME BACK TIGERS!

There is always a big welcome awaiting the players at each home. Kay and Charles Dimmock greet Doug Hazelrigs, Frank Wirth, G. G. Galloway and Jim Quaerna at their home on Shorecrest Drive for the evening meal.

IPTAY Scholarship Donors Ralph Cooper, left, and Davis Smith, right, corner Clemson head football coach Hootie Ingram to get the lowdown on the 1972 Tigers. Coaches and their families, players' wives and other invited guests had dinner together in Schilletter Hall while players were in area homes.

An idea spawned before the 1971 football season gained momentum this year and now appears to be as permanent as football itself.

The "Welcome Back Party" was an instant success.

The "party" is held the day football players return to campus for fall practice and comes at the end of a pretty full day. After going through physical examinations, being issued equipment and standing in the hot sun for the press, radio and TV, the players are ready for relaxation. This they get at the "Welcome Back Party."

The idea is for players and fans to get to know each other on a more personal basis. Last month 44 Clemson families invited three or four varsity and freshman players into their homes for dinner.

While this was taking place, the Clemson coaches and their wives, the players' wives and other invited guests dined together at Schilletter Hall after which everyone gathered at the Astro III Theater for the remaining portion of the "Welcome Back Party" and a movie.

Success of the party can be attributed to the eagerness of fans in the community to have players in their homes. Already a "waiting list" has been started for those wishing to participate.

This fall when a player makes a tackle, or catches a pass or scores a touchdown, someone in the stands is going to say, "I know him. He was a guest in our home at the welcome back party."

Two former Clemson athletes, Hank Chambers, left, and Phil Prince, were on hand at the Astro II Theater, where everyone gathered following dinner, to tell the 1972 football team what their Clemson education, participation in athletics and IPTAY had meant to them since graduation. Both Chambers and Prince are successful businessmen now.

While some families chose to have a formal dinner, others went to the patio grill. Karl Andreas, left, and Jack Palmer, right, are prepared to "load up" from Brooksie (Mrs. Champ) Jones. And from the looks of that grill, there were enough for seconds.

WELCOME BACK TIGERS

Ben Anderson, Ricky Harrell, Clebe McClary and Coach Hootie Ingram gather in front of the Astro III Theater just before the final part of the "Welcome Back Party" started. McClary, a Marine Lieutenant who lost an arm and an eye in Vietnam, spoke to the football team during his visit to Clemson.

While there was a time for eating, there was also a time for the youngsters in the neighborhood to get a few tips from the players. Joey Riley, left, and Mark Fellers, right, give some pointers to Jerry Murallo, second from left, and Johnny Porter. This photo was made at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Porter.

Each group of players carries a gift to the host for the evening. Here Lynn Barter presents Mrs. Winnie Williams with a Clemson stein in appreciation for having his group for dinner.

BOOBTUBES AND COMPUTERS

NEWEST MEMBERS IN CLASS

By Ross Cornwell/Associate Editor,
University News Bureau

Formal education, tied to chalk-and-blackboard methods of teaching for probably 2,000 years, is about ready to part some curtains of tradition and step into an exciting, revolutionary new era. It might be called the "Era of Electronic Academics."

Harnessing the powers of the computer and modern media like television, Clemson University's College of Engineering has been working to develop the "classroom of the future." It involves educational innovations which may, in the schoolrooms of tomorrow, make the old-fashioned blackboard obsolete.

This project has been funded with nearly a quarter-of-a-million-dollar grant from the Greenwood-based Self Foundation. The program includes:

—A computer-assisted learning center at Clemson, designed to replace traditional chalk-and-blackboard teaching with advanced computer and TV-assisted teaching procedures.

—a program linking 15 area high schools (through telephone lines) to a special computer on campus, giving the students and their teachers direct access to Clemson computer resources and capabilities.

The Clemson engineers are spearheading this two-pronged attack to relieve the growing instructional problems of overburdened high school and college teachers.

THE COMPUTER-ASSISTED CLASSROOM

The teacher of tomorrow must soon come to grips with powerful new tools of instruction (TV, related quick-recall mechanisms similar to the instant replay of sports coverage, and the omnipresent computer), and must use them to maximum advantage in a world of ever-expanding enrollments and the "knowledge explosion."

With this in mind Clemson engineers are setting up a new teaching laboratory unlike anything seen in any schoolroom. A TV camera looms behind the instructor. An instructor's station — actually a sophisticated electronic desk — is located at the front of the room in which 15 to 20 student stations are set up, each with its own array of sophisticated electronic equipment.

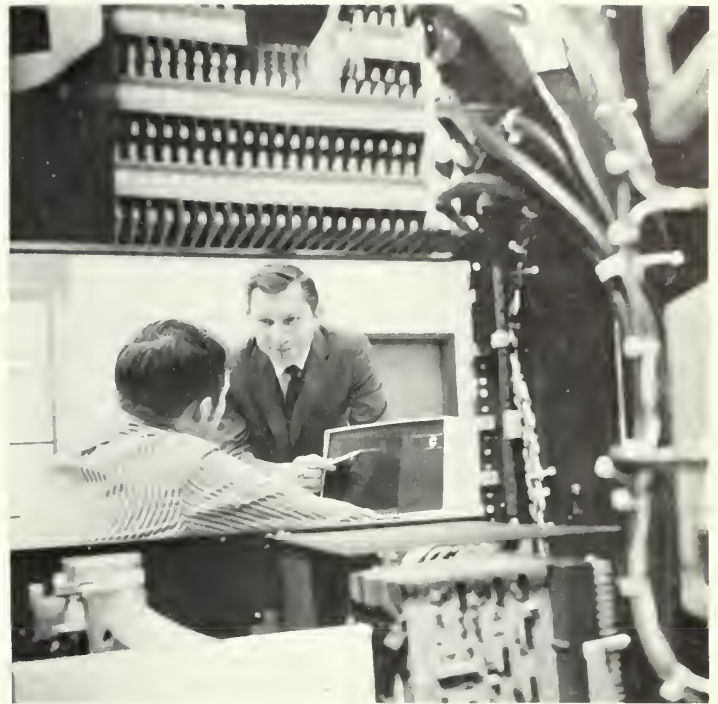

Each desk has a small combination 8-10 inch TV receiver and computer terminal. The equipment occupies two rooms, and the system employs a monitor computer to help evaluate individual students' performance and direct programmed video instruction.

Using this equipment, the teacher can now perfect his lectures by a rational trial-and-error method. By asking questions and requesting students to respond on their keyboard terminals (where the responses are picked up and shown on the teacher's video screen), the instructor can instantly learn how many students have understood that portion of the presentation. He can thus evaluate and, if necessary, change and refine that portion of his lecture on the spot. Whatever seems to work best, according to the instructor and the computer, can then be incorporated into a final version of the lesson or lecture.

Completed, valid lectures are then recorded on cassette tapes, which future students can insert into their video-computer terminals at the beginning of class.

With the tireless computer monitoring student-teacher performance, the instructor will know at all times how well his ideas are getting across. At the same time the equipment will eliminate time-consuming roll-taking and will pinpoint specific areas of instructional problems.

By 1980 this futuristic classroom, now being designed at Clemson, may be common. Today it is the first in the state, probably the only one of its kind in the Southeast. By 1985 similar computer terminals might even be found in the average home, where they will help in self-tutoring.

A NEW COMPUTER AUDIENCE

Clemson's computer programming experts are also working to fill a gaping need in American high schools: the need for introductory computer instruction.

Three years ago high school officials in the Clemson area requested assistance with this problem. A three-way cooperative program was developed involving the College of Education, the Department of Electrical and Computer Engineering, and faculties of neighboring high schools.

A small computer installed at Clemson serves each of 15 area high schools simultaneously. Teachers were brought to the campus for computer workshops as an initial step in the program, which could later be set up in other South Carolina high schools.

Telephone lines and a teletypewriter terminal plug each school into a master computer on campus. After learning a simple computer language, the students can enlist the aid of the device in solving problems.

Students will not now have to complete high school without learning what a computer is and what it can do.

Clemson is employing the computer to assist college instructors and to enrich local high school curricula and familiarize students with the computer before they enter college. At Clemson University, the "Era of Electronic Academics" has already begun.

ACC Comments: The Best ACC Player I Have Faced

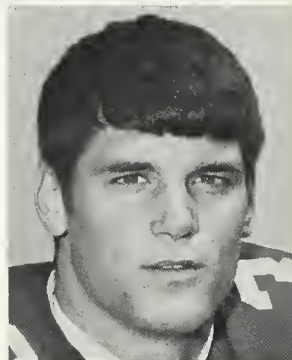

ED NEWMAN

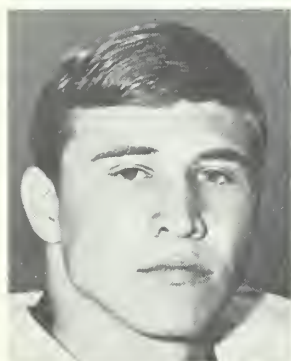

AL NEVILLE

ERIC HYMAN

BRYAN WALL

DAVE SULLIVAN

ED NEWMAN, Duke Defensive Tackle: Since playing varsity football at Duke, I have faced many outstanding players in the Atlantic Coast Conference. Many have graduated, but many return this season. In 1970 I had the opportunity of playing both offensive and defensive tackle, thus I was able to play against both the top offensive and defensive players in the league. It's hard to single out any one player, because there are several that rate very high. The top linemen I have faced who are returning this season include Bruce Reinert and Steve Komondorea of Wake Forest; Jerry Sain, Ron Rusnak and Bob Thornton of North Carolina; Tim Brannan of Maryland; Frank Wirth of Clemson; and Paul Ryzek of Virginia. I'll have to include all of them among the best I have faced.

ERIC HYMAN, North Carolina Defensive Tackle: The returning ACC players who made the biggest impression on me last season are quarterback Al Neville and end Dan Bungori, sophomore passing combination from Maryland. I was injured and did not play against the Terps, so I had a front row seat on the bench. Our defense had not been scored on all year until Neville threw a 21-yard touchdown pass to Bungori in the third quarter. They worked beautifully together. I was amazed by their precision and timing. Neville completed 14 passes in that game, six of them to Bungori. Both players seem to have promising careers ahead of them. I just hope they aren't as effective against us this year as they were last season.

DAVE SULLIVAN, Virginia Split End: The best player I have faced in my career at Virginia has been defensive back Tony Greene of Maryland. We opposed each other the last game of my sophomore season. He covered me tightly the entire game, limiting me to one reception for nine yards, that coming in the fourth quarter, in a game we lost by a 17-14 score. With all due respect to the other defensive backs in the ACC, there is no one I've met that can compare to him in speed and quickness. Greene earned my respect that afternoon more than any other player I've faced the last two years, although the ACC has had many outstanding defensive backs.

SAMMY ROTHROCK

AL NEVILLE, Maryland Quarterback: When you are asked to assess another player I guess it is only natural to look at your opposite number, and for a quarterback that would be a defensive back. One player I have to have a lot of respect for is Clemson cornerback Bobby Johnson. When we played the Tigers last year I had been having a lot of success with my passing and I was pretty confident. We were trailing, 3-0, but I had completed two out of three in our second drive and both times Dan Bungori had beaten Bobby for the catch. I thought we would score and really be in the game. A lot of defensive backs have a tendency to "let down" when you beat them, but Bobby didn't. The next two times I put the ball in the air Johnson intercepted and I never got the ball to Bungori again that afternoon. Dan is a tough man to cover and I really have to take my hat off to the job Bobby did that day.

BYRAN WALL, N. C. State Linebacker: It really is extremely difficult to select the single best Atlantic Coast Conference player whom I have faced since coming to N. C. State, but the player I respect the most is Ron Rusnak, North Carolina's All-Conference guard. He's really strong and can just run over people when he wants to. He has good size, quickness and technique, but I believe from what I have seen that his biggest asset is his determination. He really stays with you. When you play against Ron you know you have been in a ball game for the afternoon. I believe that Ron was one of the major reasons that Carolina made it to the Gator Bowl last year against Georgia.

SAMMY ROTHROCK, Wake Forest Defensive Back: I think, beyond a doubt, that Steve Jones, the hard-running Duke fullback, is the best player I have faced in the Atlantic Coast Conference. He blends natural ability with tremendous speed, quickness and agility to make him the hardest runner in the ACC. It is very difficult to tackle him single-handed for he is strong enough to run right over you. Gang tackling is often the only way to bring Jones down, and he is next to impossible to stop once he breaks into the clear and has the defensive man one-on-one. He is truly an outstanding player.

FRANK WIRTH

FRANK WIRTH, Clemson Defensive Tackle: For me to single out the best ACC player is an impossibility. There are many fine athletes whom I have faced. However, there are two men whom I have a deep respect for. They are Art Seymore, the quick Maryland back, and hard-running Ken Garrett of Wake Forest. Although Seymore was hampered last season by an injury, I feel that he'll return this season and perform even better than he did his great sophomore season of 1970. As for Garrett, I admire his aggressiveness and ability which he displayed when we played Wake Forest last season. They are both great competitors and it will be a challenge for me and my teammates to face these two fine players this fall.

FOOTBALL IN MY LIFE

By Charles W. Bussey, Jr.

Vince Lombardi, the late head football coach of the Washington Redskins, once said That he believed a man's finest hour occurs when he has played the game and lies exhausted on the field of battle — victorious.

I have read this statement many times, and I admired Coach Lombardi for years, since the statement describes a winner, and he personified a winner.

Being a winner today as a businessman is as important to me as being a winner was in years past when I was a high school and college quarterback. As a member of an athletic team, my main interest was winning — scoring more points than my opponents.

I want to be a winner today also, and because of some lessons I learned years ago during games and practice sessions, I realize that I can be a winner in several ways; and even when I lose, I can be a winner. I am sure that I was not smart enough to discern that—back then.

My experiences as a football player taught me that a winner, whether he is the player who just scored the touchdown or the successful businessman, most certainly must enjoy the thrill and happiness associated with being “on top.” At the same time, I have learned that a winner must be humble in accepting the praise and any publicity which may come his way. Any quarterback who thinks he is infallible hasn't been “red-dogged.” It's the same way in business. A winner is thankful for his success and not boastful.

I have known since my first day of practice that it takes a team to win. I mean a group of people whose prime interest lies in the success of the team; a group of people who will sacrifice if necessary to accomplish a particular mission. I have never known an athletic team filled with dissension who “broke even.”

I have never known a company with poor morale that accomplished its mission effectively. I remember a teammate, our No. 1 halfback at Clemson, who volunteered to give up his starting position in order to be my back-up when I was injured just to give us a little depth. That's the team spirit of which true winners are made.

Football taught me that a true competitor, a person with confidence in himself and his team, will never give up, but will give his total energy to accomplishing his job.

In Clemson's 1955 game with Virginia Tech, we were trailing by two points with less than three minutes remaining in the game. (VPI had just kicked a field goal to go ahead.) As we lined up for the ensuing kickoff, at least eleven of us on the team knew we could win. On the first play, our halfback caught a short pass and ran 65 yards for the winning touchdown.

On many occasions while an Air Force pilot and more recently as a businessman, I have seen hard work and confidence enable people to accomplish seemingly impossible tasks.

Life is full of decisions, and football, in my judgement, breeds decision making. As a quarterback I had to call the plays, many of which were split-second decisions at the line of scrimmage. Of course, I made some mistakes, some of which no doubt affected the outcome of the game. I have known people who were afraid of failure, and therefore, would be hesitant in making a decision. They seldom did anything wrong because they seldom did anything.

I have learned that a “winner” must make decisions which are sometimes very difficult. If he loses, he must keep his head up and keep trying. He will probably get another “crack” at it. This is what I mean when I say a person can be a winner even while losing—he has to keep trying.

I didn't need football in order to strengthen my faith because I was raised in a Christian home. However, faith has always been a part of my football life. I suppose that some of our more recent athletic scandals and some of our more questionable athletic “characters” might cause one to question whether there is anything about football which could enhance a person's faith. However, I know I am a stronger person from a religious viewpoint because of football.

Religion was a great part of every team on which I played. I can remember a short, stubby guard from the coal mining region of Pennsylvania asking for a prayer in the huddle. I can also remember our team giving a set of hymnals to the College Chapel, and I'll never forget the '56 team showing our Orange Bowl game movies to the Cripple Children's Hospital in Greenville.

Football definitely is filled with faith and religion. Even though it is a contact sport, I firmly believe it builds compassion, love and sympathy.

I suppose I could have “made it” without football. However, life wouldn't have been so much fun, and I'm afraid I would have missed many of its blessings.

Welcome To Clemson University

Welcome to an afternoon of Tiger football at Clemson University's Memorial Stadium. We are delighted to have you visit the campus. The famous Clemson spirit is not confined to the gridiron, and we hope you'll have the time while you are here to see and learn and share our excitement about some of the activities in progress at Clemson today.

Look around you, beyond the confines of the stadium, at the visible signs of a University on the move. To the west – just across from Littlejohn Coliseum – is the fast-rising Frank Johnstone Jervey Athletic Center, a 90,000 square-foot facility included in the total University Union and Activities Program.

To the northeast is an old campus symbol, Fike Field House, now undergoing complete remodeling and expansion as another part of Clemson's multimillion-dollar construction program for University Union and Activities Facilities. The new Fike Recreation Center is destined to become the cornerstone of a strong physical-recreation program for the entire University family.

Another source of special pride is our new Alumni Center, fronting the Clemson House. It provides a comfortable "home on the campus" for visiting alumni and adequate office space for an expanding alumni program. The Alumni Center was made possible through special gifts from our alumni.

Not as visible, but even more vital to Clemson progress, is the uncompromising dedication and hard work here to help solve some of man's most pressing problems.

Clemson scientists are seeking practical solutions to the puzzles of environmental pollution; to the development of improved methods of production, harvesting, processing, marketing and distribution of agricultural commodities. Clemson people are working to improve medical and health-care systems and delivery services, grappling with complex urban problems, developing education programs that prepare today's students for life and tomorrow's world, and providing the expert training and manpower so necessary for the modern business and industrial concerns.

In each endeavor, one idea remains constant: The work at Clemson University touches people's lives; it matters.

It's a time of fulfillment in the University's life, an exciting time, and we've glad to have you share it with us during your visit this weekend. I hope you get to know Clemson. It's quite an education.

IPTAY--

Special Recognition

The Clemson IPTAY Club received over a half million dollars in contributions in the year just closed, marking the first time an excess of $500,000 had been realized. But this was the sixth straight year that contributions had exceeded the previous year.

Several thousand former Clemson student-athletes, as well as several hundred currently enrolled at the university, depend solely on contributions from individuals and firms for their education. Every penny received by IPTAY since its beginning in 1934 has been used for athletic scholarships only.

Clemson has set an outstanding example for other educational institutions throughout the nation with its IPTAY program. It is probably the finest collegiate booster club in America today.

Clemson athletics would be no where near the high plateau it maintains today without these individuals and firms who believe in the Clemson program and contribute to its success each year. It is with pleasure, and with their permission, that we pay tribute to those so vitally interested in the Clemson athletic program.

BILL McLELLAN

DIRECTOR of ATHLETICS

Twenty-two years ago Bill McLellan walked on the Clemson campus for the first time. And ever since his initial visit he has worked hard each year to improve the state institution.

A native of Hamer, S.C., McLellan earned two letters for the Tigers in football under former coach Frank Howard and was a member of Clemson's 1952 Gator Bowl team.

He received his BS in agronomy from Clemson in 1954 and was then awarded a graduate research assistantship while working on his MS degree in agricultural economics which he received in 1956.

McLellan joined the athletic staff May 1, 1958, and the personnel office listed him as the assistant business manager.

But the hard working McLellan literally became a jack of all trades. He handled the ticket sales, saw that the grass was cut, purchased the athletic equipment and then when the normal working day was over for most of the university staff, he was on the football field -- serving as an assistant to Howard.

During those days of the intricate substitution, McLellan was the sideline bookkeeper for Howard.

He was appointed assistant athletic director in 1966 and was named director of athletics Feb. 4, 1971.

Only the third man to hold the title of athletic director over the past 41 years, McLellan immediately set his goals on a sound program and one that would make Clemson students, faculty, alumni, IPTAY and friends of the school proud.

"We have a great student body," the dedicated McLellan remarked. "And we are most fortunate to have a fine group of fans who support the Tigers.

"One of our goals is to make improvements within the department, but we are also making equal improvements for our student body as well."

Work is well underway on the renovation of Fike Recreation Center which will provide space for all of the most popular indoor sports and physical training activities. Among these will be a Natatorium which includes a standard AAU-size swimming pool and diving tank.

And when the Tigers take the field Sept. 9th against The Citadel, fans will sit on new aluminum seats which were installed this past summer.

The Jervey Athletic Center, which will house administrative offices, coaches' offices, dressing rooms and ticket office, is expected to be completed within the next 15 months while the new nine-lane track is over 75 per cent complete.

Those are just some of the things that Bill McLellan is doing for Clemson which will give the Tigers a physical athletic plant that will be second to none.

And Bill McLellan will continue working. He will work to put Clemson athletics at the top. He's that kind of person.

McLellan is married to the former Ann Rogers of Fork, S.C. They have four children, two daughters -- Suzy and Arch Anna -- and two sons -- Bill and Cliff.

BILL McLELLAN

THE COACH

He's an organizer and a leader. And most of all he's a dedicated and determined young man.

That's a good description of Hootie Ingram, entering his third season as head coach at Clemson.

His goal is a simple one. To rebuild the Tigers, a team that used to run roughshod over the other members of the Atlantic Coast Conference, into the power they once were.

When Ingram was named as successor to Frank Howard, a man who became a legend in his own time during his 30-year head coaching reign at Clemson, he began to assemble coaches from all directions of the country.

With his staff, he blended them together with his squad and introduced a system that was new to all concerned.

In his initial campaign, Ingram's Tigers scrapped and toiled through a rugged 11-game schedule.

Although Clemson managed to record just three wins in 1970, the Tigers fought courageously in each outing, with three of their losses coming at the hands of teams who landed berths in a post-season bowl.

After a shaky start a year ago, both the Tig offense and defense came alive and Clemson finished with a 5-6 mark, which included a 3-0 win over previously undefeated and nationally-ranked Duke and a 17-7 victory over arch-rival South Carolina. In addition, the Tigs finished second in the ACC.

And four of the setbacks in Ingram's second year at the helm came against teams who were invited to participate in a post-season contest.

So things are definitely on the up-swing at Clemson. And Ingram won't be satisfied with just victories over certain opponents or just an ACC title. His sights are much higher.

And to people who know Hootie Ingram, all realize he is a sincere individual. Football is his game and a top-notch program is his trademark.

Following graduation from the University of Alabama in 1955, Ingram, a Tuscaloosa native who was an All-Southeastern Conference defensive back for the Crimson Tide, received his MA in school administration from 'Bama.

His coaching career began in the prep ranks as Ingram served as head mentor at Bradenton, Fla., High for one year and at Tuscaloosa County High for three years.

Ingram then served as an assistant at Wake Forest one year and at Virginia Tech for three seasons.

In the next three years as an assistant at Georgia, the Bulldogs made two bowl appearances as did Arkansas in his final three seasons as an assistant under Frank Broyles.

Hootie Ingram has compiled a lot of football knowledge over the years. Beginning with the years at Bama when he led the nation in interceptions (10) and in yards returned (163) as a defensive back and his two bowl appearances with the Crimson Tide, through his assistantships under such men as Broyles and Vince Dooley; and all the way to his present stop in the small town located in the northwestern part of the State of South Carolina.

He's making things happen at Clemson. Because Hootie Ingram is that type of guy.

Ingram is married to the former Toni Snider of Tuscaloosa, who also holds graduate and undergraduate degrees from Alabama. They are the parents of three children -- two daughters, Robin (16) and Lane (9) -- and one son, Cecil, III, (13).

TOM BASS, Defensive Line Coach

One of the "old heads," Tom Bass has served under two head coaches at Clemson -- first Frank Howard and now under Hootie Ingram.

Now in his sixth year with the Tigers, Bass came to Clemson from Tennessee where he was an assistant for the Volunteers for one season.

The Mooresville, N.C., native starred in both baseball and football at Maryville College and earned his BA in biology in 1960.

Bass served as assistant coach at Sevier County High School in Sevierville, Tenn., one year before being elevated to head coach, a position he held for the next four seasons, compiling a 35-7-2 record and being named East Tennessee "Coach-of-the-Year" in 1964.

Bass served as head freshman coach at Clemson his first three seasons before being named defensive line coach.

He is married to the former Susan Price of Knoxville, Tenn., and they have three children, Thomas Steven, 6; Laura Jane, 4; and John McAndrew, 2.

LARRY BECKISH, Head Jayvee Coach

Although he's the most recent addition to the staff, Larry Beckish is not a newcomer to Clemson. He was a Tiger assistant for three years, two under Frank Howard and one in Hootie Ingram's initial year.

Beckish, who served as a varsity assistant and worked with the receivers, left Clemson following the 1970 campaign and accepted a similar position on Fran Curci's staff at the University of Miami, Fla.

A native of Haledon, N.J., Beckish received his BA degree in education from Wichita State in 1963, where he earned three letters in football. The personable Beckish captained the '63 squad and was also named to the All-Missouri Valley Conference team as an end.

Following graduation from WSU, he remained at his alma mater the next two years then served as offensive line coach at Tampa for two seasons.

Beckish is married to the former Alice Morley of Wichita, Kan., and they are the parents of two children, Michael, age 7; and Chris, age 2.

JOE BURSON, Defensive End Coach

A real fireball, Joe Burson was hired by his old coach, Hootie Ingram, when the latter accepted the head position at Clemson.

Burson was a top-notch defensive back at the University of Georgia, where he graduated with a BS in industrial arts in 1966. Following graduation, Burson was drafted by the Washington Redskins but had to forego a professional career due to an old college injury.

A native of Newnan, Ga., Burson coached at Griffin, Ga., High School for two years before coming to Clemson.

In his initial season with the Tigers, he served as head defensive coach for the freshman unit and was elevated to the varsity staff the following year, 1971, and placed in charge of the defensive ends.

Burson is one of the two unmarried members on the staff.

WHITEY JORDAN, Offensive End Coach

The only home Whitey Jordan has known in the past 17 years is Clemson. He came to Clemson upon graduation from Florence High School, starred for the Tigers on the gridiron four seasons, and has been here ever since.

Jordan was a starting end on Clemson's 1957 Orange Bowl team and also traveled the bowl route as an assistant coach in the 1959 Sugar and the '59 Bluebonnet Bowls.

Following graduation from Clemson, Jordan served as an assistant freshman coach four seasons and was named head freshman coach in 1964.

After the five-year term with the Cubs, Jordan was named offensive end coach in 1965 and was the head offensive coach for Frank Howard in 1968 and 1969.

Jordan served as offensive line coach in Hootie Ingram's first year at the helm and was moved back to his spot as offensive end coach prior to last fall.

Jordan is married to the former Kappy Stewart of Florence and they are the parents of four children, Kim, 16; Karol, 14; Stewart, 13; and Jo Kyle, 10.

JIMMYE LAYCOCK, Assistant Jayvee Coach

One of the friendliest individuals on campus, Jimmye Laycock enters his second season as an assistant on Hootie Ingram's staff.

A native of Hamilton, Va., Laycock lettered in football, basketball, baseball and golf at Loudoun Valley High School and upon graduation in 1966 he entered William & Mary.

Laycock played both defensive back and quarterback for the Indians and then received his AB in physical education in 1970.

Following graduation he served as the offensive co-ordinator at Newport News High School for one season.

Laycock, who will complete his requirements for a Masters in Education at Clemson this fall, worked with the freshman linebackers a year ago and will continue with those duties in addition to helping in scouting and recruiting.

He was married to the former Ginnie Klemkowski of Baltimore, Md., this past June, and they serve as dorm counselors in Mauldin Hall, which houses the Tiger athletes.

GEORGE MacINTYRE, Defensive Backfield Coach

One of the most alert coaches in the game, George MacIntyre came to Clemson from the University of Tampa.

Mac played both quarterback and defensive back at the University of Miami, Fla., in his undergraduate days, completing his BS in physical education in 1961.

He entered the coaching field at Jacksonville's Terry Parker High School, serving as defensive coach one season and as offensive backfield coach one year.

But his talents were soon discovered by his colleagues at Miami, and Mac returned to his alma mater, where he served four years as head freshman coach and head recruiter.

Mac then went to Tampa for two years as defensive backfield coach, a position he now holds at Clemson. And it's his group in the Tiger secondary that is one of the most solid units in the entire area.

A native of St. Petersburg, Fla., MacIntyre is married to the former Betty Harvey of Jacksonville. They have two sons, Michael, 7; and Matt, 3.

TOM MOORE, Defensive Jayvee Coach

Only in his second season at Clemson, Tom Moore joined Hootie Ingram's staff last summer.

A native of Dayton, Ohio, Moore played with New York Jet quarterback Joe Namath at Beaver Falls, Pa., High School.

Upon graduation from high school, Moore entered The Citadel where he lettered three years in football as a halfback and wide receiver. He was named All-Southern Conference and team captain his senior year.

After receiving his BS in political science from The Citadel in 1967, Moore served as a graduate assistant one year at his alma mater.

The young coach then went west, serving as offensive co-ordinator at Aurora Central High School in Aurora, Colo., one year; head freshman coach at Wichita State in 1968 and wide receiver coach at WSU in 1969-1970.

Moore is married to the former Joyce Stewart of Clemson and they have one son, Rhett, 2.

GORDON NORWOOD, Offensive Jayvee Coach

Another ex-player for head coach Hootie Ingram, Gordon Norwood joined the staff at Clemson following Ingram's appointment.

Born in Little Rock, Ark., Norwood attended the University of Arkansas and received his BS in physical education in 1970.

He earned two letters as a quarterback at Arkansas and was a member of the Razorbacks 1968 Sugar Bowl championship team. A fine collegiate athlete, Norwood also participated in freshman basketball and varsity track at U of A and lettered one year in golf.

Prior to joining the staff at Clemson, Norwood served as a graduate assistant on Frank Broyles' staff at Arkansas.

Norwood, who is single, has been working with the freshmen since coming to Clemson.

DUKE OWEN, Offensive Line Coach

Clemson's overall improved play in 1971 was aided by the improved play of the offensive line, which Duke Owen assumed duties of prior to the beginning of the season.

Owen graduated from Georgetown, Ky., College in 1953 with a BS in mathematics and physics and immediately became a successful prep coach.

Owen guided Mount Sterling, Ky., HS to a 76-29-4 overall record in a nine-year period, taking his team to the state playoffs in three of his first five years.

He then joined the staff at the University of Kentucky where he served five years and then went to Cincinnati where he was offensive line coach one season.

In his initial season at Clemson, Owen was head freshman coach and then moved to the spot as offensive line coach last year.

The Lebanon, Ky., native is married to the former Florence Deeb of Louisville, Ky., and they have two sons, David, 14; and Mitchell, 12.

STEVE SATTERFIELD, Offensive Backfield Coach

Following a successful tenure in the high school ranks, Steve Satterfield joined the staff at Clemson as head freshman coach. After a year at the helm of the Cubs, he was named as offensive backfield coach for the varsity this past June.

The Greer, S.C., native quarterbacked South Carolina teams for three years and was named All-ACC Scholastic in 1958.

After serving as a prep assistant four seasons, Satterfield was head coach at Greenville's Wade Hampton one year and then at Sumter's Edmunds High for six years.

While at Edmunds, Satterfield's teams posted a 45-19-3 mark, including a 4-A state championship and an undefeated 12-0 record in 1969.

Satterfield, who holds his masters from Appalachian State, is married to the former Barbara Woodall of Taylors, S.C. They have three children, Keleigh, 12; Steven, 8; and born this past February, Susan Joy.

DOUG SHIVELY, Linebacker Coach

Last fall, Doug Shively moulded Larry Hefner (All-ACC and now property of the Green Bay Packers) into one of the finest linebackers in the country. And look for more fine linebackers to be turned out at Clemson in the future.

The Lexington, Ky., native graduated from the University of Kentucky where he was a standout in both football and baseball.

He was introduced to athletics at an early age as he is the son of the late Bernie Shively, longtime director of athletics at Kentucky.

Shively served on the staff at Virginia Tech for six years, three with coach Hootie Ingram.

He then returned to his alma mater for a three-year term, one season as linebacker coach and two years as head defensive coach.

Shively is married to the former Patsy Moores of Lexington. They have three children, Douglas, Jr., (Chip), 11; David, 9; and Kelly, 6.

CLYDE WREN, Assistant Jayvee Coach

A native of Chester, Clyde Wrenn joined the Clemson staff this past summer as defensive co-ordinator for the 'B' team.

An all-around athlete at Chester High School, Wrenn played baseball at Spartanburg Junior College.

He earned his BS in Recreation and Park Administration from N. C. State in 1965 and following graduation was named as head assistant football and head baseball coach at Southside HS in Florence.

Wrenn, who earned his Masters from Western Carolina in 1968 in Education, coached at Southside five years before going to West Florence High School as head football coach and athletic director, where he served for two seasons prior to joining the Clemson staff.

In addition to his duties with the Jayvee team, Wrenn will also assist in recruiting and scouting.

He is married to the former Willa Lynn of Chester and they are the parents of two boys, Craig, 3; and Cal, 5 months.

FRED CONE, Chief Recruiter

What more can be said of Fred Cone. Frank Howard calls him "the greatest football player I have ever coached."

Cone came to Clemson from his native Pineapple, Ala., and when the stocky running back graduated in 1951 with a BS in agricultural education, he left his mark in the Tiger record book.

He established 10 school rushing and scoring records, six of which still stand among season and career marks, and led his teammates to the 1949 Gator Bowl and to the 1951 Orange Bowl.

Cone played in the National Football League a total of eight seasons, seven with the Green Bay Packers and one with the Dallas Cowboys.

Now entering his 12th year at Clemson, Cone is married to the former Judy Anderson of Green Bay, Wis. They have three children, Jeff, 17; Andy, 15; and Amy, 12.

RICK ROBBINS, Academic Advisor

There are 315 players on his team as Rick Robbins serves as academic advisor for all Clemson athletes.

A native of Austin, Tex., Colonel Robbins, as he is called by all athletes, has his hands full keeping tabs on the classroom work of all athletes. In addition, he serves as assistant track coach.

Robbins graduated from the University of Texas and retired from the U.S. Army with the rank of lieutenant colonel.

Aside from seeing many of his athletes graduate with honor from Clemson, Robbins has successfully aided in negotiations between Tiger stars and professional teams, such as Charlie Waters (Dallas Cowboys), Dave Thompson (Detroit Lions), Larry Hefner (Green Bay Packers), Wayne Baker (Oakland Raiders) and John McMakin (Pittsburgh Steelers).

Robbins is married to the former Clare Eaves of Palestine, Tex. They have two sons, Dick, 18; and Tommy, 14.

Only nature can deliver electricity through thin air.

SCE&G

Worry to make life easier.

FRED HOOVER, Head Trainer

For the past 13 years, Fred Hoover has been taking care of the medical needs of Clemson athletes, keeping them in shape for the various coaches.

Hoover, a native of Jacksonville, Fla., graduated from Florida State with a BS in physical education in 1953.

He has served as trainer at FSU in 1952-53 and again in 1957-58. Hoover has been the trainer for the United States at the Pan American games in Sao Paulo, Brazil, in 1963.

And this past summer, "Doc" Hoover, recognized as one of the top men in his profession, served on the training staff for the US team in the summer Olympic games in Munich, Germany.

A member of the National Athletic Trainers Association, Hoover is a past district director and past national president of NATA, and is currently serving as the national convention chairman of the association.

Hoover is married to the former Elva Cook of Mt. Vernon, Ill. They have two children, Catherine Ann, 14; and Bryan, 11.

ANDY CLAWSON, Assistant Trainer

The newest addition to Clemson's modern training program, Andy Clawson joined Fred Hoover's staff July 20, 1970.

The likeable native of Ada, Okla., graduated from Henderson State College, Arkadelphia, Ark., with a BSE in physical education in 1969. He received his masters from HSC in physical education the following year.

Clawson served as student trainer four years at Henderson State when HSC went to the NAIA basketball tournament in 1967-68 and also in 1968-69.

Upon graduation, he was appointed as Henderson State's full-time trainer while working on his masters.

Clawson, who is single, is a member of the National Athletic Trainers Association and is currently serving as editor of the NATA news-letter for District III.

HERMAN McGEE, Assistant Trainer

There's not a single person who's familiar with Clemson athletics who doesn't know Herman McGee.

McGee has served as assistant trainer, head trainer and as equipment manager in his past 38 year tenure on the Clemson staff.

In 1965, the Clemson native was recognized by the National Athletic Trainers Association for "25 or more years of meritorious service in the field of athletic training."

He can relate some of the most interesting and fascinating stories about Clemson ever known.

McGee has made all seven bowl appearances with the Tigers: the 1940 Cotton, 1949 Gator, 1951 Orange, 1952 Gator, 1957 Orange, 1959 Sugar and 1959 Bluebonnet.

He is married to the former Lucia Greene of Pendleton, S.C.

TOM BURTON, Equipment Manager

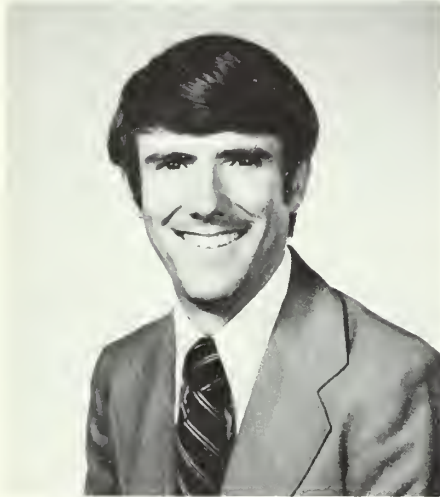

A retired Army sergeant, Tom Burton is the ideal man for the job as Clemson's equipment manager.

A native of Richmond, Va., Burton handles the school's athletic equipment as if it were a group of his favorite recruits.

He served a total of 22 years of active duty, serving in eight foreign countries, including Asiatic-Pacific area, Germany and three tours of the Far East.

Burton served on the Clemson ROTC staff for seven years and also worked with the Clemson Tiger Band as head chaperone.

He has just recently completed a survey, in conjunction with the Clemson Textile Department, in an effort to come up with the perfect formula to wash equipment that will keep it from shrinking.

A LOT OF LITTLE CARS HAVE TWO DOORS. THIS ONE HAS TWO ROOFS.

Vega is a little more car than a lot of little cars.

The roof, for instance, is constructed of not one but two separate steel panels, one under the other, to add strength and quiet to the car.

And although, like we said, a lot of little cars have two doors — very few of them have steel guard beams built into them, like the Vega doors do.

Vega gives you more engine than most little cars: A 140-cubic-inch overhead cam four that can handle turnpike speeds quite comfortably without a lot of straining.

And where some little cars let you feel every little bump, Vega has big coil springs at all four wheels to help take the harshness out of the ride.

The point of this ad is quite simple. We're just telling you that our Vega, although not a big car, is certainly a lot of car.

From road to roofs.

IP TAY PRESENTATION

Most football managers will travel more yards during a game than the leading ground gainer, but their feats, for the most part, go unnoticed by the thousands who attend the game. Duties of the managers are varied and many and they are an integral part of any football team. Clemson's student managers this year are, kneeling left to right, Pete Anderson, Dick Robbins, I. Len Gough and David Wessinger. Standing left to right are Jimmy DeWitt, Clay Mill, John Lord, Stan Greenawalt and Tim Houston.

The Last Time . . .

A punt was returned for a touchdown:

The Citadel Series

Clemson and The Citadel have been football rivals for a long time, dating back to 1909.

Although there have been only four games in the past two and a half decades between the Tigers and Bulldogs, there is always that "whompin stompin instinct" prevalent when two schools within the boundaries of one state meet each other.

Bulldog coach "Red" Parker will bring no slouch of a ball club into Memorial Stadium this afternoon. Now in his seventh year of guiding the Bulldogs, he carried them to an 8-3 season last year. His club is being selected by many to win the Southern Conference crown on this go-round.

Although losing heavy in the offensive line, Parker has the nucleus to build around in Ed Barnwell, Don Pope and Keith Roden. His biggest loss, however, as Brian Baima, who led the nation in yards receiving a year ago. But he still has two of his bread and butter players around in quarterback Harry Lynch and running back Jon Hall.

The Cadets rolled up 5,030 yards in total offense last fall and only No. 1-ranked Nebraska scored more touchdowns from 20 or more yards out than the Bulldogs.

Lynch passed for 1,507 yards and 11 scores while adding another 585 yards rushing and 10 more TDs. He is a dangerous man.

Hall built up a 7.4 average in gaining 1,230 yards and Bob Carson was almost as impressive, owing a 6.2 average on his 868 yards.

The Bulldogs gave up a lot of points last year, but with veterans such as ends Neal Rumble and Allan Melton, tackle Norm Seabrooks, middle guard Joe DeVor and linebacker Jeff Martin, there is a wealth of experience on the defense.

Coach Hootie Ingram is also expecting the Tigers to have a vastly improved team, in this his third season. But as he has said on many occasions, "All of our opponents are expected to field better teams."

After not meeting for 16 seasons Clemson and The Citadel met in 1970 when an 11th game was sanctioned. The Tigers won that game, 24-0, but struggled for a greater part of the game. These two teams are also scheduled to meet in the opening game in 1973.

In the overall series, Clemson leads with 23 victories while The Citadel has recorded five wins and there has been one tie. The Tigers have a seven-game winning streak going against the Bulldogs based on triumphs in 1932-33-35-36-48-53-54-70.

The Bulldogs last won, 6-0, in 1931 in a game played at Florence. But in the last four decades, the two schools have played only seven times.

Head trainer Fred Hoover has assembled one of the finest training and medical staffs in the south at Clemson University. Pictured on the front row (left to right) are the student trainers: Spider Webb, Charlie Oliver, Ronnie Starnes, Freddie Gore and Mike Padgett. Back row (left to right) are Hoover, assistant trainer Herman McGee, associate team physician Dr. John Vaughn, surgeon Dr. Roland Knight, associate team physician Dr. Byron Harder, team physician Dr. Jud Hair, surgeon Dr. Bill Evans and assistant trainer Andy Clawson.

Things are looking up for Clemson basketball as Tate Locke enters his third year at the Tiger helm.

The young cage coach has four starters returning from last year's unit headed by 6-11 Dave Angel (13.9) and 6-7 Mike Browning (11.9).

Other starters back include 6-0 Terrell Suit (11.2) and MVP Bud Martin (6.4).

Locke has four fine performers advancing from the 1971-72 Cub team that was 13-3 on the year with 6-3 Van Gregg (23.7) and 6-10 Wayne Croft (18.2) both expected to be in the running for a starting role.

Also in contention for a starters berth are Anderson JC transfer Jeff Reisinger, a 6-6 forward who chipped in 19 points per game a year ago, and 6-1 Ron DiPasquale and 6-8 Marty Patterson.

DiPasquale, from Pace College, and Patterson, from The Citadel, transferred to Clemson last year and had to sit out the season.

It looks to be an exciting year at Tigertown during the 72-73 cage year with such teams as NIT champ Maryland and NIT runnerup Niagara playing in Littlejohn Coliseum along with the other powers of the rugged Atlantic Coast Conference and some fine outside competition.

IPTAY Educates Student Athletes

It was organized in 1934 to support the athletic program at Clemson. And since that time, IPTAY has blossomed into what is probably the finest collegiate booster club in America today.

The late Dr. Ruppert H. (Rube) Fike is responsible for IPTAY's beginning that first year. His thought was being churned around when the Tigers were at one of their lowest depths of football. Clemson had won only seven games while losing 17 and tying five in three years.

The beginning of IPTAY was an adrenaline to football and the initial success experienced was more than anticipated. For the next eight seasons, the football teams had break even or better records. And the sixth year after IPTAY was born, the Tigers went to their first post-season bowl game.

IPTAY was organized -- and it still functions in the same manner today -- with one purpose in mind, that is, to finance athletic scholarships at Clemson. Not one single penny contributed during the past 39 years has been used for any other purpose. And all contributions are tax deductible.

But no one imagined, not even Dr. Fike, that IPTAY would expand in the manner that it stands today. For the past six years, contributions to IPTAY have exceeded each previous year. And this year, the 39th in IPTAY, will be by far the biggest year ever.

Previous to Sept. 1, 1972, the officers and directors of IPTAY proposed the largest goal ever in the history of the organization when $500,000 was decided as the amount needed to give Clemson a well rounded athletic program. As the year draws to a close, the officers and directors are pleased to announce that alumni and friends of Clemson have contributed in excess of the $500,000 goal and this is an excellent testimony to the faith in Clemson's athletic program.

As the 40th IPTAY year approaches, thousands of young men have received an education through the organization which otherwise may not have been possible.

During this past year a new category in IPTAY was begun, that being the Scholarship Donor. Twenty individuals or firms have donated $2,000 each in their name to be designated as an IPTAY Scholarship Donor.

In addition, 20 have contributed $1,000 or more, 79 $500 and 308 at least $250. In 1966, the $100 Gold Card was started and this year there are more than 1841 who have made gifts of at least $100.

However, the strength and backbone of the organization is in the more than 7061 who are regular IPTAY members of at least $20. These figures add up to give IPTAY the banner year that it has had during its 39th year of service to Clemson's athletic program.

While football was to be the main beneficiary of IPTAY funds, Clemson's other athletic teams have also benefited from the program. Conference championships have been won in football, baseball, basketball and tennis, not to mention the numerous All-American and all-conference honors won by individuals.

IPTAY means an investment in the future. Its yearly stream of "alumni" are the leaders of tomorrow.
